AET Student Badges

Purpose: This offers a summary for AET Badge details such as a summary of criteria of what each badge requires to be achieved. Target values to achieve AET Badges are based on actual student entries for each school year and represent historical benchmarks for all users.

Levels of AET Badges (Based on National Statistics from over 300,000 AET users)

AET Badge (Blue Ribbon) is awarded for those achieving the top 25% in each respective category. Once achieved, the AET Badge is shown on the student's record book and also displays the student's total badge count.

AET Gold is the highest level of achievement and represents the top 5% in each respective category. Once achieving AET Gold, the student's badge changes and the total badge count for each type of badge is listed.

AET Badge Types and Details of Information

1. Good Record Keeping Badge (annual badge) – This badge is based on regularly updating AET records and having a complete student profile. This badge can be achieved each year and is a great opportunity for all students!

2. SAE Badges (awarded for each AET Experience) – This badge is based on student's success in each SAE. Not all SAEs have the same targets, so AET Badge types have different objectives and requirements. All AET experiences should be (1) active and (2) have a complete SAE plan. Other requirements:

   Entrepreneurship projects must have appropriate expenses and achieve a targeted profit.

   Placement projects that are paid must achieve a targeted total of paychecks or if un-paid, achieve a targeted number of journal entries and journal hours

   Research, Exploratory, Supplemental and Improvement projects must achieve a targeted number of journal entries and journal hours

3. FFA Activities (annual badge) – This badge is awarded for each school year and FFA office, Committee, FFA competition and other FFA activities to achieve a targeted (1) number of activities and (2) journal hours.

4. Community Service (annual badge) – This badge is awarded for each school year and is achieved for a targeted (1) number of community service activities and (2) a number of recorded hours.
